Each of us played his part in the production of a year at Potomac State College. Like a stage, Potomac State set the scene for each of us to assume our roles. Some were cast as students, teachers, athletes and leaders, and each of us, like actors, took his place on stage and played the various characters.

Directed toward a high academic standard and promoted to inspire social maturity, the production of the 1979-80 year at PSC is rated 'G' for Great. The curtain goes up, the show begins.

Life is a theater we well may call,
where every actor must perform with art;
or laugh it through and make a farce of all, or learn to bear with grace his tragic part.

The Supporting Actors . . .
the athlete . . . takes his place on stage showing his ability the cat . . . roaring cheers of enthusiasm, a real character the teacher . . . encourages students to search for new sources of learning the student . . . relaxes in the Pub after a hard day of classes

DEBRA A. MINICK

It is to the sports information director, public relations director, English instructor, journalism instructor, and advisor of the Pasquino and Catamount of Potomac State College that the 1980 Catamount is dedicated. Without question, this person accepted the responsibility of a number of faculty members.

Her unique ability to assume these essential positions while maintaining a friendly and warm personality demonstrates her genuine concern for the prosperity of Potomac State and its students. With regard to her outstanding endeavors to maintain a high academic standard and reputable public image for the college, the yearbook editor and staff respectfully and gratefully dedicate the 1980 Catamount to Debra A. Minick.

THE QUAD . . .

A major part of the student life at PSC, the Quad was a place of pure relaxation, a place to review notes, to toss frisbees, to have snowball battles and to just have fun.

Students take a stroll across the Quad and take time out from college life to play backgammon.

Far away in the sunshine are my highest aspirations I may not reach them, but I can look and see their beauty, believe in them, and try to follow where they may lead.

Louisa May Alcott

STUDENTS AT PSC

Students settled into a new life at PSC - college life - a world of study, friendships, and activities.

As the days passed, each moment became a living memory of a treasured scene for the actors of Potomac State.

Our appearance, our words, our actions are never greater than ourselves.

Besides in the classroom, students were encouraged to learn new and different things. Students were soon to find that the knowledge learned at PSC could last to infinity.

I don't really know why people react to me the way they do. Some end up liking me and some don't and in the beginning I seldom know which way it will go. Nor does there seem to be any need to know.

The highest object of knowledge is the essential nature of the good, from which everything that is good and right derives its value for us. Without that knowledge to know everything else, however well, would be of no value to us, just as it is of no use to possess anything without getting the good of it.

took the step from adolescence to adulthood and started their role in college life. The year began with freshman orientation, where they were introduced to the faculty, Student Government and college life at PSC. After the shuffle of registration and the start of classes, the freshmen began to take action in their new life. For freshmen, it was a whole new world full of meal tickets, student ID cards, room numbers, box numbers and social security numbers. Starring roles in the freshman class were president Regina Foster, vice-president Candy Pennington, secretary Becky Rogers, treasurer Tina Tinsley and class representative Amy Grandstaff.

POTOMAC STATE FOOTBALL . . .

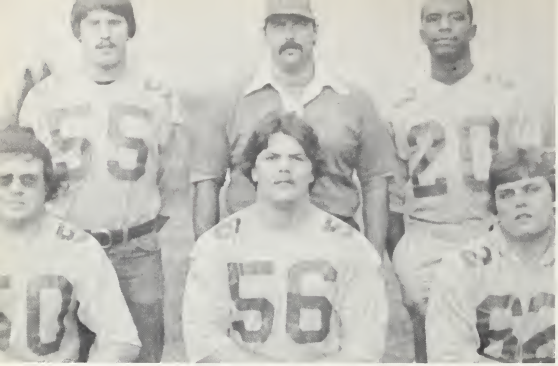
The 1979 Potomac State Football Team completed its season Nov. 10 with a 13-0 loss to the Bobcats of Lees - McRae College of Banner Elk, NC. The Cats finished the campaign with a 2-7-1 record.

Potomac states two wins were over Wesley College of Dover Delaware, 26-13 at Staymen Field Sept. 29 and Westchester of Valhalla, N.Y., 10-3 at the New York School Oct. 5.

Potomacs seven losses came at the hands of Nassau, Hartford, Chowan, Montgomery, Ferrum, Hudson Valley and Lees McRae. The Catamounts played a scoreless tie on Oct. 26 against the West Virginia University JV's in Morgantown.

First year coach Angelo Luvara said, "I was dissappointed in the record . . . but we played everyone tough except Ferrum." The Cats were outclassed in the Oct. 20 game by the Panthers 58-0. Luvara said that in his opinion Potomac State had one of the toughest defenses in the conference and that they did an excellent job keeping the opponents off the score board considering the time that the defensive unit was forced on the field.

Adding to Potomacs' offensive problems (173.1 yds per contest) was the early season loss of quarterback Rick Dimanno and tight end Jerry Greenberg who only played in two and a half games and finished seventh in the coastal conference for receiving.



REGION XX ALL-STARS 1979-80 SEASON

"TWO HALVES MAKE A HOLE AND THE FULLBACK GOES THROUGH."

VOLLEYBALL TEAM . . .

Potomac State's Womens' Volleyball Team concluded its regular season with a 12-7 record which included an eight match winning streak, and earned a berth in the Region XX Tournament. Strengths and weaknesses of the squad have shifted throughout their 19 matches. At the beginning of the season, powerful service was the team's dominating force, but continued play showed a gradual weakening in individual series.

The balance of the team members was evident in their season statistics. Leading in attacks was Nina Bakke, who had 289 spikes. Team Co-Captain Mitzi Hoover obtained 18 blocks, and was leader in serves, receptions and attacks.

Jenny Mullen, co-captain, had captured the most individual service points, 88, and led the squad in receptions and sets, with 267 and 394, respectively.

Total team defense proved to be PSC's main asset in its eight consecutive wins in the later half of the volleyball season.

This year's Potomac State volleyball team, in completing their winning season, played more matches than previous PSC teams. The volleyball program has existed for three years now, with the two proceeding seasons standings showing records of 4-6 and 8-6.
